What is a Public Charter School?

Charter schools are free, nonprofit public schools that are open to all students. They operate with more flexibility than traditional public schools in exchange for increased accountability including rigorous financial, academic and operational standards.

PUBLIC CHARTER SCHOOL FACILITIES

Public charter schools, on average, spend $2,000 per student for school buildings — money that would otherwise be spent on teachers or students in the classroom — but they have been excluded from most state facilities funding.

THIRD GRADE READING

Research shows that by the end of third grade, students must shift from “learning to read” to “reading to learn.” Students who are not proficient by this point are four times more likely to drop out of high school.

+13 Students in charter schools outperform their local district peers in 3rd grade reading.

NEWARK'S CHARTER SCHOOLS

Newark charter schools post best student learning gains in the nation

Students learn more in Newark public charter schools with gains of 48 additional days per year in reading and 73 additional days per year in math when compared to the state average accounting for student characteristics. This outpaces the national finding that public charter school students nationally gained 16 days in reading and 6 days in math.

FUNDING

Public Charter Schools Are Deeply Underfunded

64,000 public school students in charter schools are not funded equitably in New Jersey. On average, public charter schools receive approximately $4,700 less per student per year when compared to traditional district schools. Public charter schools also spend, on average, $2,000 per student on facilities, and while the State has committed over $21 billion since 2001 for traditional district for school construction, public charter schools have received just $52 million for minor building improvements.

ACCOUNTABLE TO FAMILIES

Public charter schools have greater flexibility to bring in new and creative approaches, and with that flexibility comes greater accountability. Public charter schools:

Provide financial reports to the state and conduct an annual audit

Must meet all state and federal education standards

Must be renewed very five years—and face closure if not delivering results
